KEI TRUCKS – JAPANESE MINI TRUCKS

The motor vehicle code does not have a definition for a mini-truck. When the Division of Motor Vehicles uses the term, it is referring to a kei-class truck or Japanese mini truck which is a compact utility pickup truck that does not meet emissions standards.

Known brands:

- Suzuki Carry
- Daihatsu Hijet
- Subaru Sambar
- Honda Acty truck
- Nissan Clipper
- Mazda Scrum
- Toyota Pixis
- Mitsubishi Minicab

These vehicles are exempt from an emissions test due to the type of registration they will be issued: Off-Highway, Street Legal ATV or Low-Speed Vehicle.

All other Japanese Domestic Market (JDM) import vehicles require emissions testing, some examples include: Suzuki Jimny, Honda Acty van, Honda Beat, Autozam AZ1, Suzuki Cappuccino and Nissan Skyline.

If the vehicle is 1996 or newer, it will need to be tested at the health department.
